FROM OUR EDITOR

Dear Stakeholders

As you know, our university has received two-year Institutional Accreditation by YÖKAK. To ensure sustainability in our education quality, we maintain all our processes following YÖKAK standards and continue our work within the scope of continuous improvement. In this article, I would like to touch upon the issues related to Leadership and Quality, which is the first of the 5 structures organized under the Leadership, Governance, and Quality standard, which is the first of the four titles of YÖKAK standards, and the processes that exist in our institution regarding these issues.

Governance Model and Administrative Structure; In this context, the existence of the organizational chart of our university, the determination of affiliation relations, the Quality Assurance Communication determined in the Quality Assurance and Quality Improvement Procedure, and the determination of job descriptions including the board of trustees, the workflow processes we have prepared and the fact that all these are announced to all stakeholders through the internal communication platform, the alyans system and our website are our practices that meet the standard.

Leadership; I would like to state again that we are very lucky in this regard. Strategy and Quality activities in our university are guided by the Board of Trustees and the Rectorate, and the Rector chairs the Quality Commission and provides leadership in managing the processes under the standards. He has been proactive in this leadership, drawing attention to the issues of risk management, sustainability and resilience even before they were mentioned by other institutions and leading the establishment of the infrastructure on these issues. Our Rector is also following the effective management of the studies To improve the quality assurance culture in the institution, we first conducted a Quality Culture measurement. We will also see the progress we have made when we repeat the measurement by making improvements regarding the opinions and suggestions we have received. In addition, the training planned by the Human Resources Department for managers and manager candidates continues.

Corporate Transformation Capacity; In this regard, the Change Management Model Guide, which we published regarding Cotter's "Eight Steps to Organizational Change", was added to our quality system and made accessible to our stakeholders. With the Risk Management Commission, which we have established to be ready for change and risks, we plan improvements by addressing the issues of preparation for possible risks. In addition, as of this year, we will start evaluating our performance indicators not only with our past but also with other institutions

Internal Quality Assurance Mechanisms; The processes and mechanisms to be activated in line with the Quality Management Plan, which we are preparing a new one for 2024, are planned, implemented, monitored and additional measures are taken when necessary. The Quality Assurance Directive and Quality Assurance and Quality Improvement Procedure of our institution were last reviewed and updated in 2023. In these documents, the processes and practices of the Quality Commission are defined. These documents were sent to all employees and published on the common network, the alyans system, to ensure awareness. The Quality Commission meets monthly and takes an active role in the implementation of the Quality Assurance System. We have an Accreditation Commission for accreditation processes. Our stakeholders submit their opinions and suggestions about the processes through the stakeholder opinion and suggestion system on our Quality website and their opinions are presented to the commission every month and the actions that can be taken are determined.

Public disclosure and accountability have been adopted as a principle in our organization. All announcements and information for the public are published on our website. With the newly established web content coordinatorship, our web page has become more user-friendly. We receive feedback from our external stakeholders about our public disclosure and accountability mechanisms through surveys, analyze them quarterly, and forward the results to the Quality Commission. Thus, we also evaluate their satisfaction with our processes.

See you in the next issue of our Hashtag Quality E-Newsletter and have a healthy and quality day.

Best Regards.

Özgül Özkoç

STRATEGY DEVELOPMENT AND

FROM OUR EXPERT

Dear Stakeholders of Altınbaş University,
I would like to start by conveying that I am happy and proud of our efforts to adopt a quality culture and support quality processes by taking part in this corner of our e-bulletin where I can convey my feelings.

With the start of the new year, we have set new goals as Altınbaş University. I would also like to happily express that I am aware that we are moving forward by understanding the importance of our work and process improvements in cooperation with all academic / administrative units and internal / external stakeholders.

The topics in the Hashtag Quality bulletin are important steps that shed light on our progress towards our goals. By raising awareness of these steps, we aim to guide individuals and institutions with responsibility and awareness.

Being aware of the valuable activities carried out at our university in line with YÖKAK standards will contribute to our institutional motivation. I would like to thank all our units who worked tirelessly in January as in other periods of time.

Today, universities have social responsibilities not only in education but also in research and development. I am proud to be a part of this important mission, a reflection of light on this challenging path.

I would like to thank our Rector I would like to thank Prof. Dr. Çağrı ERHAN for guiding us in our work with his effective leadership.

I would like to thank my department head, Dr. Lecturer Özgül ÖZKOÇ, who sheds light on my personal and institutional goals. I would like to thank Dr. Özgül ÖZKOÇ.

I would like to thank all Altınbaş University staff who helped us achieve our goals by working in cooperation, and especially my teammate Melike YAZICI ALTINBAŞ for her hard work.

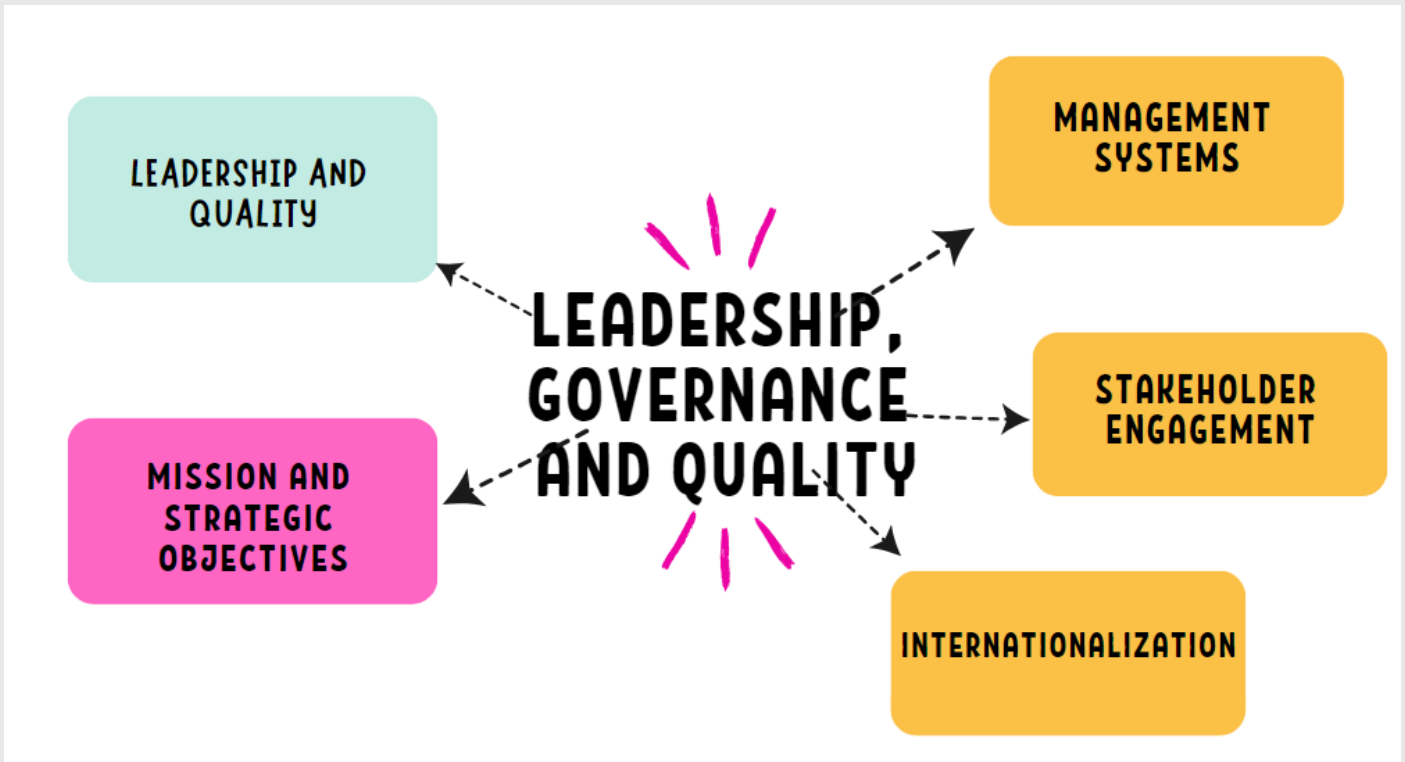

I wish you enjoyable reading.
